SEEK TO MAKE AUTOS PAY PART OF TAXES

This is Scheme of Man Who Wants Roads of State Made Better by Improvement.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 11.—A bill to make the automobiles of the state bear a goodly portion of the expense of construction and maintenance of highways, as well as for the building of proposed great and permanent state roads, was introduced today by Assemblyman Hatcher of Ozaukee county. Assemblyman Hatcher declares that the time has come when the highways will be practically monopolized by automobiles. In fact, he says that up in the lake shore counties, one of which he represents in the legislature, there are so many automobiles running to and from Milwaukee that the old-fashioned horse-drawn vehicle has no show, and can progress on the public roads only at great hazard of disaster. He recognizes, however, that the automobile has come to stay and that it would be useless and unprofitable to attempt to legislate to restrain the modern and irresistible tendency toward power vehicles, but he declares that it is not unreasonable to require the automobile to pay substantially toward the building and maintenance of highways. He points to the fact that the state constitution has been amended so as to authorize the legislature to appropriate state money for road building, and he declares that if a source of revenue for this purpose be not found, the result will be the heavy taxation of general property of the state for the benefit of automobiles. Therefore he has introduced a bill to tax automobiles, according to size—$5 for a car of less than five horsepower, $10 for one of 5 to 10 horsepower, and $20 for one of 10 to 15 horsepower, and $30 for one of 15 to 20 horsepower, and $40 for one of 20 to 25 horsepower, and $50 for one of 25 to 30 horsepower, and $60 for one of 30 to 35 horsepower, and $70 for one of 35 to 40 horsepower, WELCOMING HOME THE BATTLE-SHIP FLEET.

(By WALDEN FAWCETT.)

At historic Hampton Roads on Monday, February 22, will be enacted the most remarkable and impressive naval spectacle in the history of the nation. It is not, indeed, in the history of the world. It is a truly predicted that not even the memorable naval show which Great Britain arranged as a feature of Queen Victoria's jubilee was the equal in magnitude and splendor of the celebration which will constitute an official "welcome home" for Uncle Sam's famous round-the-world fleet. Twenty-two first-class American battleships steaming into the finest natural harbor in the world is a sight bound to arouse the thousands of spectators to the highest pitch of enthusiasm.

The time and the place are particularly appropriate for this dazzling finale to the globe-circling cruise of the most powerful fighting fleet ever mustered by any nation. The anniversary of Washington's birthday is, of course, appropriate for any patriotic purpose and certainly no better setting could be provided than this for the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimack—those pluckers of the present era of armaments.

"It was at first proposed that the final scene in the record-breaking jaunt of the battleships should be enacted in New York harbor, but finally it was decided that the fleet should round out its long journey at the very point from which it set sail upward of a year ago. Sentiment was the foremost factor in this decision, but there was also another consideration. The flower of the globe-trotting bluejackets from the battleships are to have the place of honor in the great inaugural parade at Washington, which will escort President Taft from the capital to the White House after he has taken the oath of office, and it will be a much more simple matter to transfer these men from Hampton Roads to the capital and to return them to their ships after the inauguration than it would be if the vessels were anchored at New York. A distinguished company of spectators will witness the return to American waters of our twentieth century ships of the line. The fleet will be reviewed by President Roosevelt from the presidential yacht Mayflower, and it is expected that the chief magistrate will be accompanied by President-elect Taft, by the secretary and assistant secretary of the navy, and by Admiral Dewey and the naval officers of highest rank now detailed for shore duty, including, of course, Admiral Evans, retired, who commanded the fleet in the first leg of the cruise now closing. It is expected that Mrs. Roosevelt and the wives of the members of the reviewing party will be included in the company aboard the Mayflower.

The plan is that the president and his guests will leave Washington on Sunday afternoon, February 21, steaming leisurely down the Potomac and Chesapeake bay Sunday night, and arriving at Hampton Roads early Monday morning. The battleships, which can be depended upon to pass between Cape Charles and Cape Henry on time almost to the minute, will steam past the Mayflower and drop anchor in Hampton Roads in a long double row. Then will take place the real review, which will consist of the Mayflower, with the president and the bridge, steaming up and down the double line of floating fortresses, receiving in turn from each a thunderous salute until the air is filled with a din surpassing that of the most pretentious sham battle.

After the review the president will receive the five admirals and the captains commanding the various ships of the squadron, on board the Mayflower and, according to the present program, will entertain them at luncheon. A grand review of the bluejackets on the old grounds of the Jamestown exposition, facing Hampton Roads, has been considered as a possible feature of the occasion, but the present inclination is to omit this lest it tend to overtax the program of an already crowded day. In the late afternoon the presidential party will set sail for Washington. However, the battleships or a major portion of them will remain at the Hampton Roads rendezvous for some days, and it is expected that this interval will be crowded with the gayest of social festivities centering at the Hotel Chamberlain. This enormous hostelry is located on the government reservation at Fort Monroe—the key to Hampton Roads and Chesapeake bay, and since Fort Monroe is now the nation's largest and most heavily garrisoned military post it goes without saying that the army will join with the navy in the festivities attended upon the home-coming.

The battleship review will attract thousands of visitors to Tidewater Virginia and for weeks past applications for accommodations have been pouring in upon the people of Old Point, Norfolk, Hampton, Newport News, Portsmouth and the other communities on the shores of Hampton Roads. A considerable portion of the welcoming throng will be made up of the mothers, wives, daughters, sisters and sweethearts of the officers and men aboard the warships. When the fleet was on the Pacific coast last year a number of these "girls that were left behind" journeyed to the west coast for a short visit with loved ones and in a few instances the wives and daughters of officers followed the fleet around the globe, but the itinerary was a too hurried one to make such unlooked-for visits very satisfactory and most of the navy women will see their husbands for the first time in nearly a year when the veterans of gold brand step ashore from the spluttering launches at the busy little dock at Old Point Comfort. Of course, this applies only to the marines from the round-the-world fleet. Admiral Armitage's squadron of our newest battleships merely escorted the nomads from Gibraltar and performed these escort ships and their officers will merely shine by reflected glory as compared with the peaceful victors of three oceans.

tion that the trouble was not of a national character, but only sectional. To these two men more than any one else may be given the credit for straightening out this difficulty.

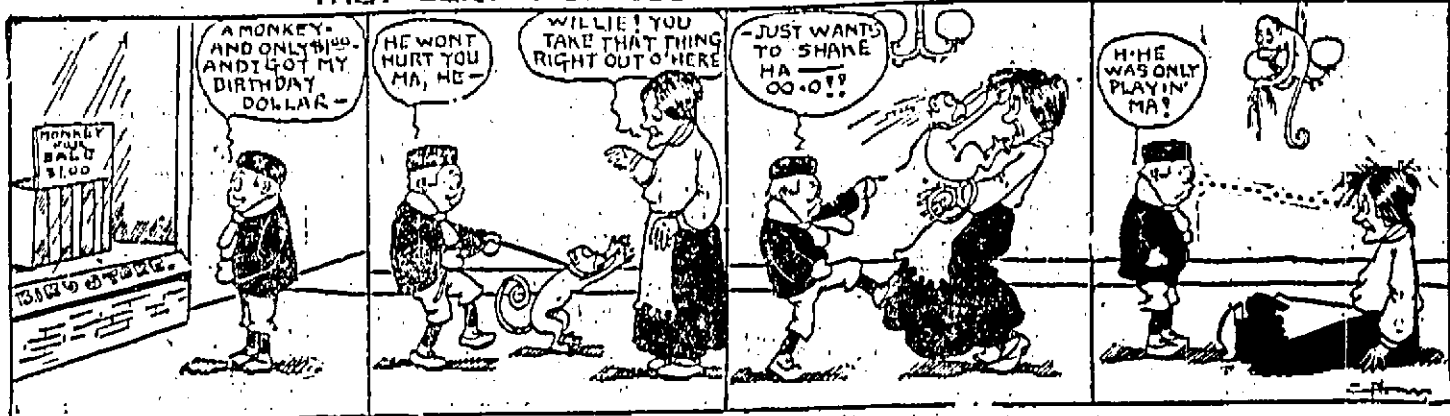

The Hon. Samuel W. McCall.

Congressman McCall is one of the interesting figures in the national capital. A number of factors contribute to this conclusion. More prominent than others at the present time is the fact that he is high up in the ways and means committee of the house of representatives, which has in tow the question of tariff reform. Congressman McCall hails from aristocratic Boston. His home is in Winchester, one of the Bostonian suburbs. He has been in the house for many terms, and is one of its most influential members. He is an orator of splendid force and an author of great prominence. He is a lecturer this year also in Columbia university. He has traveled far and wide and possesses a knowledge of public affairs rarely excelled or equaled in Washington. His friends say that he would make a premier secretary of state, fit for the cabinet of any president.

Uncle Allen. "I've noticed," remarked Uncle Allen Sparks, "that the fellow who really swears off from his bad habits doesn't go around advertising it beforehand."

FACES GALLONS FOR ABDUCTING YOUNG GIRL.

Baltimore, Md.—Joseph Janier faces the gallows for the abduction of a 12-year-old girl from her home in New York city. As soon as the couple were located here detectives were sent and every effort made to bring them back to New York city, but the Maryland authorities, after a brief investigation, decided the case was too heinous to necessitate any extradition, but felt that in justice to themselves and their state the trial should take place in Baltimore.

This was partly due, too, to the fact that the Maryland laws are especially stringent in dealing with such cases and read as follows: "The offender convicted thereof shall at the discretion of the court, suffer death or imprisonment for life in the penitentiary or for a definite period not less than 18 months nor more than 21 years."

"The girl's story is to the effect that Joseph Janier was boarding with her father and mother at 217 Clarkson avenue, Brooklyn. Her father was very sick and expected to die when Janier proposed that he take the young girl, who is not yet 12 years of age, to Maryland with him. The girl's mother or aunt, for they had every confidence in Janier. The young girl did

THE SMALL TOWN

In this everyday talk and discussion of the management of a city, in the petty bickering of aldermen over important matters and with the coming election of Mayor, city clerk, aldermen and supervisors it is like a breath of fresh air to turn aside from the hum of a city the size of Janesville or even larger to such an account as the authorities of the little town of Yarmouth, Massachusetts, make of their stewardship.

There are only 381 registered voters in the town, yet the annual town report makes a sizeable volume of 105 pages.

Yarmouth is a Cape Cod town where the old-fashioned ways have not been outgrown. The result is that everybody knows what everybody gets for what anybody does in a public capacity. And in this knowledge lies the effectiveness of the "town meeting" form of government peculiar to New England. Yarmouth expended for all purposes $53,608 in 1900, and also had an unexpended balance of a creditable $1,968. Some $210 comes from the county dog fund, while the income from the dog fund has gone to its three public libraries. This shows that however much Cape Cod folks may love dogs, they love their children more, which is not always the case in larger towns.

In the statements of accounts the support of schools shows generally expenditures larger than the amount raised, which is not a bad sign. There was expended upon the schools alone $8,000, on an average attendance of 100 pupils.

If one wishes to know what is done at New England town meetings he may read with profit the "Annual Town Meeting Warrant," calling voters to meet at the town house, to consider town affairs at the annual gathering. It is the most truly democratic method of local government ever devised. We may find indeed that the solution of many of our larger problems lies really at our door. The way they work them out in Yarmouth town is an example of good government on a small scale. The basic principle is honesty and is the same anywhere on any scale.

SEES THE LIGHT

There is no use in engendering hard feelings over the impending revolt of the reformers at Madison and upon the repudiation of the primary law upon its first practical test, but the announcements of its position as published in the Milwaukee Free Press show to the general public that the men who have so blindly followed Robert M. La Follette dogma and doctrine for years past see light at last.

Reform for self advancement. Reform for personal gratification is the primary precept of the reformers. Regard on by a newspaper that has hailed its own party, has done much to stir up discord in the ranks of the republicans and poses as a reformer for circulation only, the revolting Senators at Madison are given an opportunity of showing their devotion to the "cause of Boh."

Isaac Stephenson gave liberally to the campaign of La Follette. How much he spent is not known in detail, never will be, but it was sufficient to place a financially embarrassed attorney upon a firm financial basis and in a position many seek and few attain, a United States Senator.

Isaac Stephenson sought to become a Senator also. He believed that for his past services to the party and state he should be granted this desire. His election was bitterly contested. He won; he went to Washington where he did honor to his state and the nation.

Then again he sought the office for the full term. Under the law he and the reformers had enacted, the primary law, his name was presented to the voters of the state for their approval or rejection. They decided he should be returned. By a plurality over his opponents he was named as the people's choice.

Then came the legislature and their decision, as directed by the "wee small voice at Washington" was to contest the seat, bring claim of fraud and make charges of improper use of money for campaign expenses and otherwise defeat the choice of the people. Thus far they have been successful. They have held up the election, have delayed the regular business of the session and have started something that will not be finished this year or two years from now. To cap the climax the "wee small voice at Washington" has issued a demand to the man who befriended him and dared him to state how much he really paid for his campaign in the past. Now comes the gleam of light to the men who have so blindly followed La Follette. His desire for office, his desire for power all are demonstrated by this last sweeping statement in which he repudiates his benefactor and stands as Ajax defying the elements.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

Janesville tomorrow commemorates the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. Under the auspices of the Rock County Bar Association a special program will be given in the Myers Theatre. Hon. George R. Peck of Chicago, one of the leading legal lights of the American bar, is to deliver the address of the afternoon. It will be a memorable occasion, one which will be well worth attending. The state legislature has declared the day a legal holiday for this year and the Governor has issued a proclamation asking for its observance. Lincoln the martyr, is to be honored as but few men in this nation are honored. Reverend R. C. Denison has written the following verse on the man among men which is typical of him as few lines are:

A homely Lincoln from out the west,

Of awkward men and country crossroads jest,

Wins the world's heart, without a sally

on grace

Of fawning manners or of courtier

grasp; the high prize of life, by no

shrewd plan,

But by the simple virtue of a man.

Now is the time for good, honest and fearless men to make up their mind to seek election as members of the common council. There is need of good material, of men without prejudice or political or business affiliations to become aldermen.

"Dixie" will be one of the songs sung tomorrow at the Lincoln day celebration and it is fitting that it should be. "Dixie" is not a sectional or a factional song, but a beautiful piece of music sung long before the civil war period and which will be sung when the war is but a memory.

So Wisconsin did not know that Taft came from Ohio. The clerk who made the mistake in writing that Wisconsin cast its vote for Taft of New York must have failed to read the papers to say the least.

About time for more talk about that Home-Come next Fourth of July is it not? Anyway it will make one feel warm with the cold wind blowing and thermometer hovering about zero.

No election as yet for United States Senator. The wrangle still continues and the fight goes merrily on hampering all other legislation until the reformers are satisfied.

MAGAZINE REVIEWS

The Task That Needed God.

In the February Circle magazine James Oppenheim pictures Lincoln the night before the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation. He knows how well he knows—at that moment how little a part he was playing. Something behind all things—something beneath all things—the vast power and love—were working out in America the liberation of the toilers of humanity. And he? He, the common man—the boy born of "white trash," poor whites in Kentucky—the boy trained to hard farm-hand labor—the poor country lawyer—Old Abe—the full applier—yes—he smiled grimly to himself—though on a throne, he was still a common man—same old stuff—same Old Abe—same old leader and joker and comrade. He had a Napoleon's position and power. He laughed at himself. How poorly Napoleon's shoes fitted his feet.

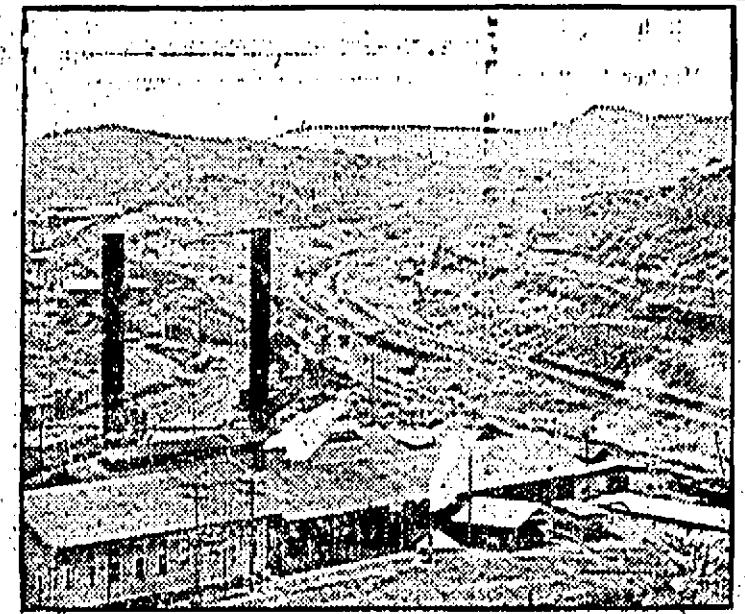

And then he thought again of his Proclamation. It was safely waiting in some desk drawer. Which? He forgot which. He was safely shiftless about things and the old Proclamation might be in his hat band for all he knew. For a moment it flashed across his mind that this Proclamation might lead to his own downfall, his disgrace. Was the country ready for it? It was a daring act, and he had to do it alone. No one else could share the responsibility. At one stroke of the hand of one man—and that man himself—the slaves of two centuries, the millions of black animals, would be promised their freedom. If the Confederacy did not surrender by the first of the year. And the man the promise he would keep it. A terrible power was in his hands. That stroke of his pen might ruin these United States with all the future millions on millions of human souls! He lay for some time staring into the darkness. But up and he looked, as if he saw God. And then into his breaking heart, his shattered soul, a flood of light seemed to be poured; it streamed into him; it swept through him; the room seemed charged with spirit. Making him single, came the divine glory. He felt strong; he felt buoyant; he felt sure. It was the sacred moment. He knew now he would go on with the task until it was ended. He knew now that God was with him. He knew now that he was the tool which God's great hand was using in the Nineteenth Century. He determined, once and for all, that come death or defeat, he would go forth on the morrow and issue his Proclamation. The slaves would be free!

Popular Mechanics for March.

Never before has the span of a single month included a trio of such remarkable disasters as were the Italian earthquake, the Chicago crib fire, and the wreck of the steamship "Republic." In each instance there were features which no other year in the world's history could possibly have given a precedent, because these features depended on mechanical development. In treating the three events it is this phase that the March number of Popular Mechanics brings out, and one reading the articles and viewing the illustrations obtains vivid mental pictures of warships speeding on errands of mercy, as it is. With our points out in one of his editorials: of reconstruction work begun by the United States, or other nations had recovered entirely from the stupor following calamity. In the crib disaster, comment is of a different character, for the incongruity of an engineering feat involving features that have attracted world-wide interest and the deplorable lack of protection for the workmen engaged thereon cannot but force itself upon the mind. And when before has an ocean collision thrilled the world and aroused breathless interest—not because lives were lost—but because a mysterious voice called "wireless telegraphy" spoke through space in no uncertain tones, and lives were saved?

Among the most interesting features of the March magazine is H. H. Whitaker's suggestion for humane methods in slaughter yards. How the United States government will take the biggest census in its history with less (in proportion) expenditure of money and labor is well told. How snakes are skinned alive in Sumatra to supply the trade will curdle the blood as well as arouse interest, for the pictures are especially graphic. A motor locomotive, with a speed of 70 miles an hour is described. How the Wright ship is kept aloft is carefully explained. Gas companies in large cities now maintain a corps of woman experts who are sent out to explain gas ranges and meters, and teach economy to housewives. Splendid illustrations accompany this article. "There are but a few" of many in the March number, which contains 106 articles and 203 illustrations. Every article is descriptive rather than technical and written so the average person can understand and enjoy it. Fiction has never reached the height attained by these true stories of achievement, and there is no easier or surer method of keeping abreast the times than to read Popular Mechanics.

This view shows the Colón cut as it appears today and demonstrates clearly the success attending the American enterprise in its gigantic excavation.

Mrs. John Stirling and Mrs. Mabel Atherton. THE LADIES WHO ARE ABSORBING THE INTEREST OF SOCIETY IN ENGLAND.

London, Eng.—The domestic trouble of the Stirlings have not society ago. The principles are themselves well known society leaders and the case involves others of even higher social standing. One of the reasons for this international interest is the fact that Mrs. Mabel Atherton, noted as the most beautiful woman in England, is involved in the case, for it was Mrs. Atherton who made serious charges against Mrs. Stirling. Ladies of the highest standing in England have flocked to the courts to witness the divorce proceedings and have remained there many weeks in which the testimony was of so delicate a nature as to be impracticable. During Mrs. Stirling's direct testimony the attorneys refused to continue with the case until the visitors' seats had been vacated. Mrs. Stirling admitted having been "silly" and "indiscreet" with Lord Northland, who is named as co-respondent in the suit for divorce, but maintains that no improper relations existed. She blames her troubles on Mrs. Atherton, whom she declares conspired to throw her and Lord Northland together so that Mrs. Atherton Heart to Heart Talks. By EDWIN A. NYE. Copyright, 1900, by American Press Association.

A SOMBER PICTURE. "Where can I go? No place to work, no more home, no one to work for, Christians, my husband, he died two years ago. Then my kids—six of them die—croup—of cold. I marry Amel Jelle. He leaves me two months after. He way out in the country. I don't believe him working. He never work for me; just out all the time. "One day—he had all the time and got sent to Lansing—my girl who go away, too, and I send her to run away to Ohio, and I work and work and never go ahead, and then my back breaks. Oh, it hurts terrible!"

Thus in her broken English did Caroline Preslau, an almost helpless German woman, tell her tale of woes at St. Mary's hospital at Detroit.

Several years ago she left the fatherland, happy in her young motherhood and eager for the future of her young brood in the new land of plenty.

Indeed, the poor German mother found bitter hardship, unending toil, sickness, sorrow, failure and heartache. Her husband died. She toiled at the wash tub in a tense and fragile struggle for bread. Six of the eleven children died. She married again, and the worthless husband deserted her. Her health entirely failed, and she was sent to the hospital.

This is a picture from real life—almost hideously real.

The tints are all somber, and the background is dark. There is no blue sky, no gleam of sunshine, no horizon. Pictures of this kind make the lover of his kind grow sick at heart.

As one thinks of the helpless little German mother sitting with listless face and dazed eyes, looking backward on the utter waste of the meaning of MISERY and DEBILITY.

And it also makes one ashamed of his complaining at petty things.

In the allotment of human life this woman has somehow been cheated out of her rightful share of the good things.

With questioning, almost anger, in your heart you turn to fate and question it:

If the law of compensation holds, as we have so often heard—if each soul born of woman must get his portion of the good—might have Mr. Stirling for herself. Mrs. Stirling was Miss Clara Taylor an American actress, and lived in Washington before her marriage. Her mother and Mrs. Atherton got into the police court in London recently when Mrs. Taylor called on Mrs. Atherton to demand a retraction of gossip with reference to her daughter, the outcome of the call being a charge of assault and battery brought by Mrs. Atherton against Mrs. Taylor. Mrs. Atherton a year ago secured damages in a breach of promise suit against Captain Jervo Buller, who had refused to marry her after figuring in the suit which resulted in Mrs. Atherton being divorced by her husband.

Where will broken hearted Caroline Preslau get what is owing her?

Strained Relations.

There is a great deal of bitter feeling in our neighborhood just now. Men who have been friendly for years forget to speak when they meet in the street cars, and the women have stopped gossiping over the fences. No one knows for certain whose child it was that started the chickenpox circulating in the block, but we all have our suspicions.—Providence (R. I.) Journal.

JOHN H. MYERS' SUDDEN DEATH.

Passed Away at Home on South Main Street Shortly After Midnight—Fifty-eight Years of Age.

The many friends of John H. Myers—and he had no enemies—were shocked to learn this morning of his sudden death at the home on South Main street shortly after midnight. He was taken ill about seven o'clock and his condition became so grave, and the evening wore on, that relatives were summoned to his bedside. Dr. Fred Sutherland, the attending physician, did everything possible to save him, but the patient's vitality was low and the heart action became gradually weaker and ceased entirely about half-past twelve o'clock.

Fifty-eight Years Old

The deceased was a son of Mrs. Julia A. Myers and the late Peter Myers and was born in 1851. He attended Lawrence University and Oberlin College and it was while he was a student at the latter institution that he met Miss Nellie Duncanson, daughter of an Oberlin physician, who afterward became his wife. There were three children by this marriage—a daughter, Miss Maudie Myers, who passed away five years ago; a son who died in infancy; and another son, Harold Myers, who recently graduated from the University of Wisconsin and is preparing himself for a career as a surgeon at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. The first wife died about twelve years ago and three years later she was wedded to Miss Laura Lord, daughter of a physician at Kaukauna, Wis., who survives him. Besides the relatives who have been mentioned, there are left to mourn his loss: two brothers and a sister—Walter Myers, who is living in British Columbia, and Peter L. Myers and Miss Katherine J. Myers, both of this city.

Many Years a Merchant

He was a director in the old cotton mill company and for about ten years successfully conducted a grocery on South Main street. Subsequently he retired from this calling and established the wallpaper and picture establishment which he had since been identified. He owned the Young American business block on South Main street, the two frame stores on the Milwaukee street bridge, and the former Garbraith stables. Eventually, also, he would have had a half interest in the Hotel Myers property.

Funeral Tonight

Mrs. Julia Myers, his mother, is 84 years old and very feeble and the family have not deemed it advisable to inform her of the son's death. Harold Myers telegraphed from Cleveland this morning that he was about to take a train leaving that city and would be here this evening. The funeral will be held from the home, 15 South Main street, at two o'clock Saturday afternoon.

LOSERS IN CONTEST GAVE FINE BANQUET

Winners in Contests of Royal Neighbors Were Guests of Defeated Team.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Edgerton, Feb. 11.—The R. N. of A. banquet was given last evening by the losing side in the recent contest under the leadership of Mrs. Dolin Madden at Woodman hall. It was a decided success from the culinary point of view. The banquet consisted of a three-course dinner served at six o'clock to the Royal Neighbors and their husbands. The menu consisted of chicken pie, mashed potatoes, cream peas, dill pickles, hot rolls, coffee, fruit salad, rosettes, brick ice cream, devil's food and white cake. The tables were beautifully decorated with carnations and smilax, with violoncello place cards, and were presided over by Mrs. Minnie Josephine Bates, Helen Cook, Vencie Thompson, Myrtle Maltress and Hazel Conn. Mrs. Harry Ash acted as toastmaster and many and varied were the toasts, displaying great talent, quick wit and repartee. It was a most enjoyable evening and each one felt in departing: "Happy are we met; happy have we been; happy may we part; and happy meet again."

News arrived here early in the week of the safe arrival of an eight-month baby girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hutson at Seattle, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. Hutson were formerly residents of Edgerton.

D. J. McGuinn of Janesville spent the early part of the week with his mother, Mrs. J. M. Howard.

Eight of the lady friends of Mrs. Will Hardeen surprised her at her home Tuesday evening, the occasion being her birthday. The evening was pleasantly spent playing 500. The guests brought fruit and candies for refreshment. They left the fair hosts as a gentle reminder of the happy event six cut glass tumblers. Those present were Madams Willard McGowan, I. Spike, Dave Lapman, Will Atwell, P. C. Brown, Harry Ash and Frank Ash.

The services in the Congregational church Feb. 14th are as follows: Morning service—The Everlasting Word; evening service—A Strange Book and Its Lesson. Rev. H. E. Parr, pastor. Christian Endeavor at 6:15, subject—Life lessons from the book of Job, leader—Miss Hazel Conn. The usual services will be held at the M. E. church on Sunday. Rev. D. J. Wilson, the evangelist, will have charge of both morning and evening services; morning subject—Four Men, evening subject—Gentle Knockers.

Agree on Wage Scale.
Detroit, Mich., Feb. 11.—In the annual wage conference of Great Lakes tug owners and their employees' unions the Dredge Workers' Protective association yesterday agreed upon last year's scale, $55 to $60 a month. The steam shovel and dredge men's unions had previously accepted last year's wages of $150 a month, with an increase from $20 to $22.50 for board for employees who do not take their meals on the boats.

Counterfeiting in Penitentiary.
Mountsville, W. Va., Feb. 11.—That counterfeiting has been conducted by prisoners in the West Virginia penitentiary was among additional charges filed last night before the legislative committee investigating the institution, by Delegate Moore. This charge was sustained by the testimony of Prison Guard Brander, that several months ago he found a complete counterfeiting kit in the cell of a prisoner named Jones.

Makes Plea for Morse.
New York, Feb. 11.—Before the United States court of appeals yesterday Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Charles W. Morse, urged for the release of the imprisoned banker on bail pending determination of the appeal from his conviction last November of violation of the national banking laws and his sentence to 15 years' imprisonment in the Atlanta federal prison.

JOSEPH D. O'BRIEN.

Milwaukee, Wis.—It is doubtful if another man in baseball created so much interest in the "inside" and political workings of the national game as did Joseph D. O'Brien at the meeting of the minors not long ago. It was Mr. O'Brien, who, with Pat Powers of the Eastern league, marched out of the meeting because the requests of his organization were not granted. Since then Mr. O'Brien again became "famous" by his system of outwitting President Pulliam of the National league, who sought to secure the services of umpire "Blick" Owens.

"Joe" O'Brien is the president of the American association, recently chosen AA's a notch higher than the Western and Southern leagues. His organization is the strongest in the world outside of the National and American leagues. And it was the same little "Joe" O'Brien who aided in bringing the association to the front.

In as president of the American association four years ago and since then he has conducted the affairs of the organization in great shape. As a producer of good umpires he is close to the top, and it was only after paying $25 a month that he kept Owens from joining the National league. Umpires Klein, Kurin and Kane are American association umpire graduates in the big leagues.

W. CAMERON FORBES.

W. CAMERON FORBES, THE OLD HARVARD FOOTBALL STAR, WHO IS SLATED FOR GOVERNOR OF THE PHILIPPINES.

William Cameron Forbes is a Massachusetts man through and through. He was born and educated in his native state and since his graduation from Harvard up until 1904 a member of the firm of J. M. Forbes & Co., of Boston. He is a well-known officer and director in several Boston corporations, banks, etc. In 1904 he entered public life as a member of the Philippine commission. He was made secretary of commerce and police in the government of the Philippine Islands and since then has been active in the government of our insular possessions.

While no official statements have been made as to his appointment as governor of the Philippines, it is thought by friends who are on the inside that he is slated for this position. His past success, qualifies him well for the appointment.

Spide down, against ball.

Not for Hans.
Hans came in from his ranch to buy a horse. "I've got the very thing you want," said Ike Bergman; "it's a fine road horse, five years old, sound as a quill, $175 cash down, and he goes ten miles without stopping." Hans threw up his hands in protest. "Not for me," he said—"not for me, I wouldn't give you five cents for him. I live eight miles out, and I'd half to walk back two miles."

Dealing with Trouble.
There is no life that is empty of care. There is no existence that is absolutely free from heart pangs. You must take your troubles as they come, shake 'em up if you can, and throw them out of your mind quickly.

Work of Women Inventors.
Women are said to have been issued more than 6,000 patents by the United States office. They are not all domestic by any means, either, as some of them are for car couplers, night signaling, life rafts, car wheels, machines for manufacturing ozone and a typewriter for the blind. A pocket sewing machine and a wash that will go up without sticking are other inventions by women.

Furnishings.
The average woman doesn't think the house is furnished unless she has a card receiver in the parlor and hand-painted salt and pepper shakers in the dining room.

Money and its Drawbacks.
Some people are left money just in the nick of time, and make good use of it; it is ruinous to others to receive money that they have never earned. A good many people would never do any work at all if it wasn't for the fact that they had to, and so a wise Providence decrees that money shall not come their way except by the sweat of their brow.—The Captain.

DEFEAT THE ANTI-JAP LAWS

California Legislators Reject "Obnoxious Measures."

IS VICTORY FOR ROOSEVELT

President Expresses Pleasure at Rejection of Bill Which Clears the State's Assembly of All Acts Aimed at Aliens.

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 11.—The California assembly yesterday by a vote of 41 to 37 rejected the bill segregating Japanese students in the public schools. The measure brought to bear by President Roosevelt and Gov. Gillett was too strong for the legislators to withstand.

An effort by the supporters of the bill further to reconsider was lost by a vote and the assembly is now clear of any anti-Japanese measure objected to by the national administration.

Hard Fight on Bill.
The fight for the suppression of the bill was won only after many hours of heated debate on the floor. The struggle started at 10:20 o'clock in the morning, on the presentation of a resolution by Assemblyman J. P. Transue of Los Angeles affirming the right of the state to govern its schools, but withdrawing the Japanese segregation measure because of the president's objection to it and lasted until four o'clock in the afternoon, when Grove L. Johnson's motion further to reconsider was defeated on a tie vote, 38 to 38.

The final clause of the resolution which was adopted follows:

"And finally, while we recognize that assembly bill No. 14 is drawn and could be passed by the legislature of this state in full conformity with the powers reserved to the state and vouchsafed to it by the federal government, we are unwilling to do anything which may disturb the relations existing between this government and a friendly power and for this reason alone we recommend that this bill be reconsidered and withdrawn."

In the senate a long resolution by Marc Anthony of San Francisco endorsing United States Senator George C. Perkins' attitude in the Japanese controversy was quickly disposed of by reference to the committee on judiciary.

President Expresses Pleasure.

Washington, Feb. 11.—When informed of the action of the California assembly President Roosevelt sent to Gov. Gillett the following message: "Accept my heartiest congratulations. All good Americans appreciate what you have done. Pray extend congratulations individually to all who have aided you. I feel that the way in which California has done what was right for the nation makes it more than ever obligatory on the nation in every way to safeguard the interests of California. All that I personally can do toward this end, whether in public or private life shall most certainly be done."

To Speaker Stanton the president sent this telegram:

"Accept my heartiest thanks and congratulations for the great service you have rendered. On behalf of the people of the United States I thank the people of California and their representatives in the legislature."

Will Ignore Chinese.

Washington, Feb. 11.—No action will be taken by President Roosevelt, it was announced at the White House yesterday, in regard to the requests made to him by the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent association of San Francisco in its telegram, which the president received yesterday.

Montana Man Sentenced to Jail and Forced to Wed.

Holena, Mont., Feb. 11.—Thomas Hanby, a former South Carolinian, yesterday was convicted on a bigamy charge in the federal court and was not only fined $100 and sent to jail for six months, but also was sentenced to marry an Indian woman. Hanby's first wife, learning of his marriage to Mary Lalrocha, Blackfoot maiden, obtained his indictment and then a legal separation for herself. Because of the first marriage, the second marriage was declared void.

Judge Hunt not only imposed the sentence indicated, but instructed the United States marshal to see that the marriage was carried out immediately, and a justice of the peace united the couple.

Fort Myers, Fla., Feb. 11.—Through the capaking of their boat Tuesday afternoon in the Gulf of Naples, below this place, three men were drowned and two others reached shore after staying in the water on the wreckage all night and part of yesterday. The dead are:

William Phillips, Charles G. Wicker, Ray Hagelney, all of Chicago.

The body of Wicker was recovered, but the others have not been found. A dispatch says the men intended to be out for a few hours only, but that in a squall their boat was overturned, and the two survivors saving themselves by clinging to the wreck. They sought for the bodies of their companions, hoping to find them. The body of Wicker was sent to Chicago last night.

Richards is fatally wounded, his abdomen having been pierced twice. Dawson was stabbed in the back.

Religious Fanatic Frozen.

Nellefontaine, O., Feb. 11.—"I am living as Jesus lived." So said a courteous young man who walked through the "Big Four" depot here three days ago offering signs and dates to the crowd in the waiting room. Railroad officials yesterday got word from Tower Hill, Ill., that "Graham" had been found near there frozen and stark naked.

Be Cheerful.

Cheerfulness is a matter of birth and education. If you want to be cheerful, you can be so by learning to smile. A sluggish liver pulls down the corners of the mouth as soon as a mountain of trouble.

GROOMING COUNTS

But it cannot make a Fair Skin or a Glossy Coat.

Women with good complexions cannot be too cleanly. Creams, lotions, washes and powders cannot make a fair skin. Every woman knows that the satin coat of her skin comes from the animal's "all-right" condition. Let the horse get "off his feed" and his coat turns dull. Caring, brushing and rubbing will give him a clean coat, but cannot produce the coveted smoothness and gloss of the horse's skin, which is his complexion. The ladies will see this point.

Lane's Family Medicine

Is the best preparation for ladies who desire a gentle laxative in solution that will give the body perfect cleanliness internally and the whole complexion that produces such skin as painters love to copy. At druggists', 25c.

SPAIN'S FEAR CAUSED SURRENDER OF CUBA

Belief That United States Would Attack Her Coast Brought About Peace Move.

Madrid, Feb. 11.—Following the publication of certain cablegrams exchanged between the Spanish government at Madrid and Gen. Blanco at Havana, relative to the surrender of Cuba to the United States in 1898, it is now learned that four of an American attack upon the coast of Spain and a subsequent revolution in this country was the official reason for Premier Sagasta's decision to make peace with the United States.

Moreover, this decision was reached before the negotiations for the surrender of Santiago were concluded. These facts have been disclosed by the further publication of the correspondence between Gen. Blanco and Premier Sagasta, at the instigation of Blanco, as a defense against the charge of cowardice made against the Spanish army in Cuba by a Catalan deputy.

A dispatch received by the Spanish government on July 9, 1898, from Gen. Blanco, insisted that the army, although crippled by the loss of Corvera's fleet, was ready and anxious to continue the war, but both the minister of war and Premier Sagasta replied on July 12, that as the Americans were masters of the sea and were preparing to attack the Balearic Islands and the Spanish coast, which would be certain to produce an uprising in the interior, peace was imperative.

Gen. Blanco protesting to the last, finally agreed to obey orders and surrender.

In substance the order of the court calls for an investigation of affairs at the state prison, its officers and employees and other matters that may be called to the attention of the jury.

By the Grace of God Alone.

Removes Tan, Freckles, Pimples, Eruptions, Itch, Blemishes, Redness, and every blemish on beauty, and restores the skin to its natural condition. It is the best of all skin preparations. It is the only one that does not dry the skin. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel tight. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel itchy. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel uncomfortable. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel worse. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel any different. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel any worse. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel any better. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel any different. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel any worse. It is the only one that does not make the skin feel any better.

Not all of this was done with the first generation, nor with the second, although the second demonstrated that although his work with the first had made for the uplift, it was more traceable, more easily taught, quicker of understanding and more accurate in appreciation. He had bettered the fiber, or better, he had made fiber from protoplasm and had vivified it.

Motakaktha is today a model municipal government, officered and organized by the aborigines, which Father Duncan 40 years ago connected with the uplift. It has its mayor, who is an Indian, and its council, or after its name board, also Indians. It has its department of health, which has applied to street construction and to

FATHER DUNCAN AND HIS UTOPIA.

Between the seven sons of Guggenheim and an island of gold and other gold, which is their hearts' desire, there stands a little gray-haired priest of the church and a collection of humans which he has made by hand.

This island of riches is Motakaktha, a green gem set in the midst of a thousand other green gems, which are the jewels that make transcendently beautiful the sunny south Alaskan coast.

The guardian against the predatory hand is Father Duncan and his people are the aborigines to whom 40 years ago he carried the word of God and the ways of civilization—they are his people, for he made them, and of all the tribes on earth, saving the five nations alone, there is none to compare, for under the little padre's guidance they have attained the standard of the white man, without having shouldered his burden.

From land's end to land's end their island of Motakaktha is a treasure box. It is a huge ledge of heavily mineralized quartz thrust up from the sea's bottom and made to blossom as a garden by the water-wearing current of the Japan stream. Geologically, the theory is that it is a continuation of the world famous ledge of Douglas Island, which has given to the Treadwell family a dozen fortunes of magnitude, and which is now giving to the English syndicate that holds it, other fortunes of greater proportions. Almost anywhere among the fir trees and the flowers, the rich vein outcrops and the gulches and scree slopes are filled with gold-shot, which shows above the green that comes of copper in such proportion that it means millions to mill it.

They have bought the rich placers of Yukon, have the seven Guggenheims; they have spent millions for control of the never-ending copper deposits in the Copper River country. They have a purchasing agreement on the tremendously rich copper vein that has brought La Touche Island to prominence, and prospectors among the gold dikes of Chicago Island are, for the most part, "Guggery" agents engaged with a pick. They have doled the Seward peninsula and the Somo beach with experts and they have prospected, bought and banded the wonderful deposits of the Tinnian. Millions, millions and more millions they have spent and are spending, that one day they may take hundreds of millions more.

Down in the University of California Prof. Jacques Loeb with his bromide and his sea urchin egg, has created life where there was none. The biologist of the world have given him great acclaim and the church has held his name an anthem for thrusting in the hand where tradition says the hand may not go.

Up in Motakaktha, Father Duncan has created souls where there were none and into the balance against them he has thrown the millions that might be his, and theirs, and has decided for the souls.

If he left to Father Duncan there will be no golden calf lifted up on Motakaktha to demolish his children and wrest from the altar of the Almighty his life's offering. Now made morals shall not be played against Mammon, nor shall he play against the people he has lifted from the depths he exposed to the degenerating influence that comes of much money and the near two score of years since Father Duncan hunted out his island and began the molding of the island that he found there. He named his domain for the tribe of Indians he fathered. The Indian he found was the aboriginal, known vulgarly in the northwest and the Alaska coast as the Shwakh, or Chinook. His place in civilization's scale is only a peg lower than that of the Digger Indian of California.

Once he had acquired the Chinook jargon, crossed with a smattering of Russian, which the aborigines used, the little priest set about his self-appointed task. He had before him to fight sloth and sin and almost universal disease, but he found his new people curious and through that channel he proceeded. He led them from an attitude of tolerant amusement to a point of serious consideration and at length to acceptance of his creed and an understanding of it. They put aside their totem, cast out the crowd, and accepted God. He eradicated inherent laziness by showing them in time the rewards of work, and by making their work to profit them in comfort. He led them to personal pride through their love of color and by the same means finally lifted their women from the bondage of the totem and the fishing boat, and elevated them to the accepted conjugal state. He gave them crafts and tools wherewith to pay them, and finally he gave them schools.

Not all of this was done with the first generation, nor with the second, although the second demonstrated that although his work with the first had made for the uplift, it was more traceable, more easily taught, quicker of understanding and more accurate in appreciation. He had bettered the fiber, or better, he had made fiber from protoplasm and had vivified it.

Motakaktha is today a model municipal government, officered and organized by the aborigines, which Father Duncan 40 years ago connected with the uplift. It has its mayor, who is an Indian, and its council, or after its name board, also Indians. It has its department of health, which has applied to street construction and to dwelling and mercantile structures every modern rule of sanitation. Its streets are turpined and macadamized and cover a perfect sewer system. Its gardens are blooming with blossoms, or green with vegetables, and the homes themselves, recall those streets upon streets of pretty brick cottages that are one of the chief characteristics of the always beautiful city of Denver.

There is a modern fire department with an Indian chief and Indian firemen. In the schools, which the Indians have built, Indian teachers of the second generation teach other Indians of the third and fourth, and there is many a graduate fares forth to the colleges of Washington and Oregon.

The Motakaktha Indian band has gained national note, for the Indian has in him the same native music that has the Hawaiian, albeit it comes not an easy expression as it does to the island of the more southern seas.

All these things Father Duncan has done with Alaska's aborigines. All these and one thing more, for he has kept them clean and wholesome, and by common consent and because of abhorrence of disease, there is no drop of liquor to be had on the island, not even in the drug store, where Indian pharmacists compound the few drugs that are needed in a fourth head of health. The saloon is unknown and so are its attendant evils.

Now he is fighting the Guggenheims and all of their many ramifications, for the Guggenheims are not in the business of creating souls, but in the soulless business of creating millions, and there is only a gray-haired priest and a handful of improved natives between them and the riches of Motakaktha.

SHIPS FLEE FROM BLIZZARD.

Lake Vessels Quickly Put into Port to Escape Gale.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—A blizzard that swept Lake Michigan with a 50-mile an hour gale yesterday caused all vessels that had ventured out of harbor to put back again in a hurry and not until last night when the wind had abated did any craft take chances on the lake.

Not in recent years has the lake experienced so severe a storm as that which swept over the lake. The fact that the spring navigation has not opened as yet was only thing that prevented a number of wrecks according to old-time mariners of the great lakes.

Rescuers Save Miners.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 11.—Buried beneath thousands of tons of ore, John C. Brown and Louis Deen, miners at the Republic Iron and Steel Company's Cambria property at Negamoo, escaped death when after 28 hours of ceaseless toil, fellow employees extricated them from their position. Not until a solid wall of rock had been pierced by a tunnel 18 feet long was the rescue of the men accomplished.

Girl Catches a Burglar.

Chillicothe, Mo., Feb. 11.—Miss Mary McCarty, agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad at Sturges, northeast of here, yesterday captured single-handed, a man whom she accuses of having burglarized her ticket office when several tickets were stolen. She covered him with a revolver and held him prisoner until the arrival of the sheriff.

Danderine

PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention it really needs to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the hair of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutrients when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon to plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts, we will send a large sample free by return mail to anyone who sends this free coupon to:

James A. Garfield was the second martyred president, and after the assassination in the station at Washington, he lingered for several weeks until his death on September 19, 1881.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Among the 25 men who have been chosen to lead this great commonwealth in its present place in the world's history, three have met with an untimely death at the hands of an assassin. On February 12 we celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, who was shot at Ford's theater and died April 15, 1865.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.

The circumstances surrounding William McKinley's death at Buffalo are well remembered by every citizen. His untimely end came on the fourteenth of September, 1901.

All of these martyred presidents were killed by fanatics, who met their just deserts at the hands of the people and the law. Lincoln was killed by John Wilkes Booth; Garfield by Charles Julius Guiteau, and McKinley by Louis Czolgosz.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half a million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever upon them. "No, no," he said gently. "There is no resentment, no false pride, in my love, Jessica. I am thinking of you and of Anston. You would have me go back, would you not?"

She looked up, smiling, and slowly shook her head. "You are a blind guesser," she said. "Don't you think I know what is in your mind? Not Anston, Hugh. Some time, but not now—not yet. It is nearer than that."

His eyes flowed into hers. "You understand. Yes, it is here. This is where I must finish my fight first. Yesterday I would have left Smoky Mountain forever because you were here. Now—"

"I will help you," she said. "All the world besides counts nothing if only we are together. I could live in a cabin here on the mountain always, in a forest of Arden, till I grow old and want nothing but that—and you."

As he did not answer, she faced him with crimsoning cheeks; then, reading his look, she suddenly threw her arms about his neck.

"Hugh," she cried, "we belong to each other now! There is no one else to consider, is there? I want to be to you what I haven't been—to bear things with you and help you!"

He kissed her eyes and hair. "You have helped, you do help me, Jessica!" he urged. "But I am jealous for your love. It must not be offended. The town of Smoky Mountain must not sneer—and it would sneer now."

"Let it!" she exclaimed resentfully. "As if I would care!"

"But I would care," he said softly. "I want to climb a little higher first."

She was silent a moment, her fingers twisting the fallen leaves. "You don't want them to know that I am your wife?"

"Not yet—till I can see my way."

She nodded and smiled, and the cloud lifted from her face. "You must know best," she said. "This is what I shall do, then. I shall leave the mountain tomorrow. The people there are nothing to me, but the town of Smoky Mountain is yours, and I must be a part of it too. I am going to the Mountain Valley House. Mrs. Halloran will take care of me. She sprang to her feet as she added, "I shall go to her about it now."

He rose and walked with her through the bracken to the road. They came out to the driveway just below the trail that led to the Knob. The bank was high, and, leaping first, he held up his arms to her and lifted her lightly down. In the instant as she lay in his arms he bent and kissed her on the lips.

Neither noted two figures walking together at that moment rounded the bend of the road a little way above. They were Tom Felder and Dr. Brent. Both men saw the kiss and instinctively drew back. The doctor noted now the telltale flush on his companion's face.

"We have surprised a romance," he said as the two unconscious figures disappeared down the curving stretch. "Who is the man?"

"He is the one we have been talking about."

Felder nodded. "His cabin is just below here on the hillside."

"Good Lord!" ejaculated the doctor. "What an infernal play! What's his name?"

"Hugh Stires."

"Stires?" the other repeated. "Stires? How odd!" He stood a moment, tapping his suit case with his stick. Suddenly he took the lawyer's arm and led him into the sidepath.

"Come," he said, "I want to show you something."

He led the way quickly to the Knob, where he stopped, as much astonished as his companion, for he had known nothing of the station. They read the words etched on its base. "The prodigal son," said Felder.

"Now look at the name on the headstone," said the physician.

Felder's glance lifted from the stone to peer through the screening bushes to the cabin on the hillside below and returned to the other's face with quick comprehension. "You think—"

"Who could doubt it? I will arise and go unto my father!" The old man's whim to his buried here had a meaning, after all. The statue in Miss Halloran's work—nobody in Smoky Mountain could do it—and I've seen her modeling in clay at the sanitarium. What we saw just now is the key to what might have been a pretty riddle if we had ever looked further than our noses. It's a case of a clever rascal—and damnable propinquity. The ward has fallen in love with the black-sheep."

Chapter 24

was in his element. With his wheezy melodion, his gasoline stove and his wild earnestness, he crowded the main street of the little mining town. He had not lacked for listeners here. For he was a new sensation. When he lit his flare in the courthouse square at dusk on the second evening of the office of the Mountain Valley House was emptied and the barrooms and gaming tables well-nigh deserted of their patrons.

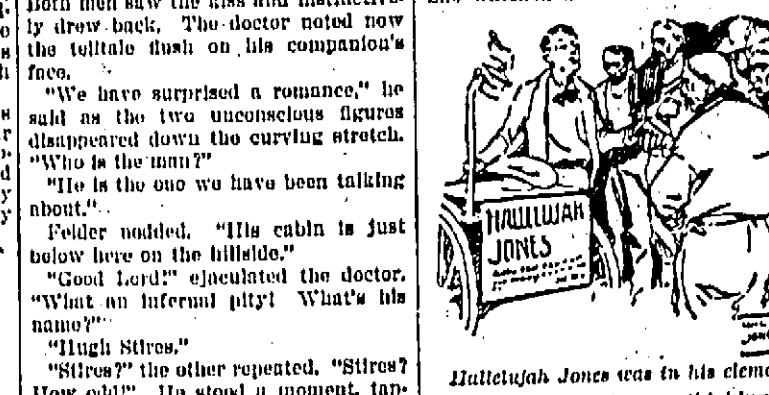

Jessie had seen the mustering crowd from the hotel entrance. Mrs. Halloran had welcomed her errand that day and given her her best room. She had persuaded her visitor to spend the afternoon and insisted that she stay to supper. "Just to see how she would like it for a steady diet." Now, as Jessie passed along toward the mountain road the spectacle chained her feet on the outskirts of the gathering. She watched and listened with a pre-occupied mind. She was thinking that on her way to the sanitarium she would cross to the cabin for a good night word with the man upon whom her every thought centered.

As it happened, however, Harry was at that moment very near her. Alone on the mountain, the perplexing conflict of feeling had again descended upon him. He had fought it, but it had prevailed and at nightfall had driven him down to the town, where the street preacher now held forth. He stood alone, unnoticed, a little distance away near the courthouse steps, where by reason of the crowd Jessie could see neither him nor the dog, which snuffed at the heels of the circle of bystanders as if to inquire casually of salvation.

Numbers were swelling now, and the street preacher, shaking back his long hair, drew a melodion, waving chord from his melodion and struck up a gospel song. The song ended, he mounted his camp stool to propound his usual fiery text.

The watcher by the steps was gazing with a strange, alert intensity. Something in the scene held him enthralled. Hallelujah Jones knew the melodramatic value of contrast. As his mood called he passed abruptly from exhortation to song, from prayer to fulmination, and he embellished his harangue with anecdotes drawn from his lifelong campaign against the arch enemy of souls. Of what he had said the solitary observer had been quite unconscious. It was the ensemble—the repetition of something experienced somewhere before—that appealed to him. Suddenly, however, a chance phrase pierced to his understanding.

Another moment and he was leaning forward, his eyes fixed, his breath straining at his breast. For each word of the speaker now was knocking a sledge hammer blow upon the blank wall in his brain. Hallelujah Jones had launched into the recital of a story which, though the stern charge of a bishop had kept him silent as to name and locality, yet, possessing the vividness of an actual experience, had lost little in the telling. It was the tale of

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Noah, Ky. — "I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from headaches, nervous prostration, and hemorrhages. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, so that I can do all my housework, and attend to the store and postoffice, and I feel much younger than I really am."

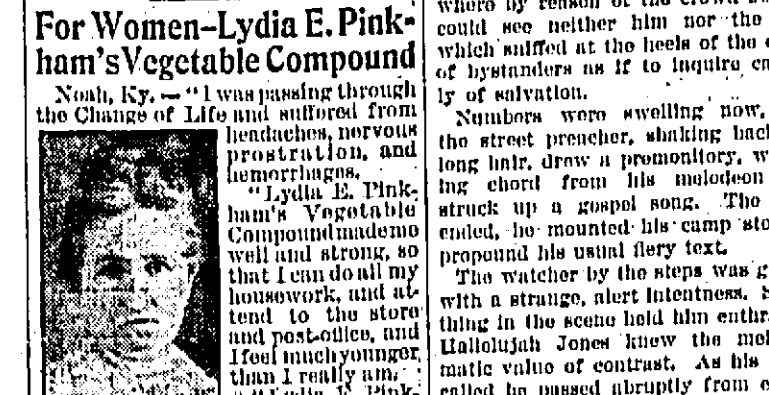

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most successful remedy for all kinds of female troubles, and I feel that I can never praise it enough." — Mrs. Lizzie Holland, Noah, Ky.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Of all sad words of tongue or pen—the saddest are these: "It might have been."

an evening when he had peered through the tilted window of a chapel and seen the dissolute rector gambling on the table of the Lord.

The words stricken themselves through Harry's brain. Harry Stires, not Hugh Stires! Not an outsider! Not a criminal, thief and forger! The curtain was rent. The dead wall in his brain was down, and the real past swept over him in an ungovernable flood. Hallelujah Jones had furnished the clew to the maze. His story was the last great wave, which had crumbled all at once the cliff of oblivion that the normal process of the recovered mind had been stealthily undermining. Harry Stires at last knew his past and all of puzzle and distress that it had held.

Slinking in every limb and feeling all along the courthouse wall like a drunk man, he made his way to the further deserted street. A passerby would have shrunk at sight of his face and his burning eyes.

The Business Men of This Country Believe in Newspaper Advertising to the Extent That Last Year More Than Six Hundred Million Dollars Were Spent For It.

That is a large amount of money. It is about as much in value as the annual cotton crop of the United States. It is larger than the wheat crop of the entire country, and is more than the combined capital of all the national banks in the United States.

And now, notwithstanding the foregoing statements, some good men will stand up and say that newspaper advertising will not pay. They are simply behind the times and fail to comprehend the facts as they exist. The truth is that they do not know, because they have never advertised consistently or properly. This one fact is certain; if your advertising is adapted to the conditions of your business it will pay you handsomely.

Our representative can tell you how to adapt it to your business and will plan for you an advertising campaign that will bring you results.

And the results from your advertising are more important to us than you may imagine at first thought. As a matter of fact, unless your advertising gives satisfactory results we have lost all chances of a renewal contract, which would represent in the course of a few years many times your first appropriation.

Myriads of Microscopic Animals Infest the Skin of the Sufferer.

When the skin of an eczema sufferer itches and burns in untold agony do you know what is going on within the pores of that skin?

Myriads of microscopic animals are gnawing at the flesh, breaking down the fine cells and causing festers, thick scales and that terrible itch. The germs multiply faster than Nature can throw them off.

Now, there is only one way to get rid of these germs—they must be killed in their lair—by the pores. Boiling the stomach or trying to cure the blood will not, of course, kill the germs, but that is why all the blood purifiers fail in eczema; that is also true of salves which do not penetrate can do no permanent good.

Ordinary oil of watergreen properly compounded in liquid form will penetrate the pores of the skin and kill the eczema germs. If properly mixed with thymol, glycerine and other ingredients (as in D. D. D. Prescription) this wash will build up the tissue of the skin and promote its healthy growth, giving Nature a chance, while killing the germs faster than they can multiply.

Druggists J. P. Baker and E. F. Helmsstreet of this city, recommend D. D. D. Prescription, also D. D. Soap.

The experiments of Prof. Frankland, Ph. D., of London, show that cod liver oil yields two and one-half times more energy than starches or sweets.

is, pure cod liver oil combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda. It forms fat, gives strength, enriches the blood, invigorates the nerves, and repairs tissues.
